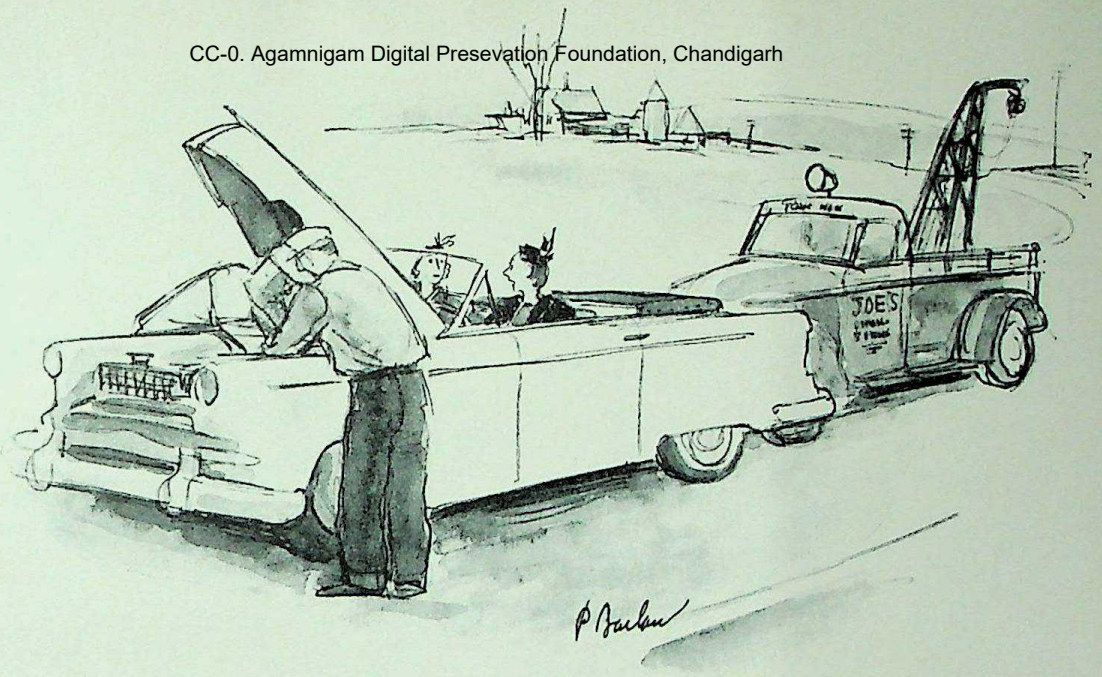
"Tremaine, could I see you for a moment—alone?"

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

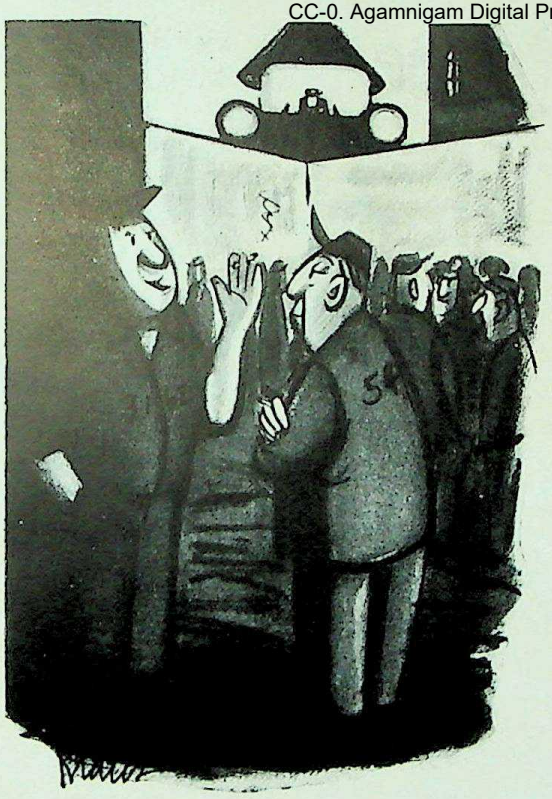


"I'm so relieved. I was afraid they'd just touch something and it would start right up."

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh

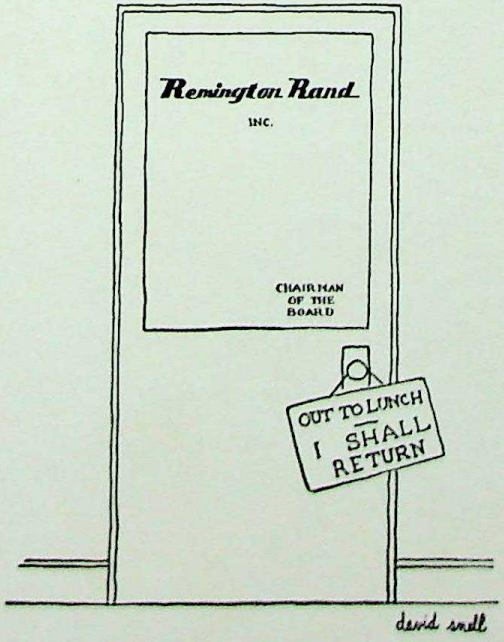
"Hey, Combs! Where the hell do you think you're going?"

CC-0. Agamnigam Digital Presevation Foundation, Chandigarh



"I swore they'd never take me alive, but when the time came I figured what the hell."

"Unus, duo, tres, quattuor, quinque, sex . . ."



"Really, Ethel Driggs! Doesn't the Girl Scout oath we took back in Elkhart mean anything to you any more?"

"Aunt Claire asked you a question, dear. Are you the pitcher or the catcher?"

"CAN-CAN"

The lady doing a high kick in a manner popular in Montmartre in the nineties is Gwen Verdon. The other, and more restrained, girl is Lalo, an interesting importation from France. Their admirers are, respectively, Hans Conried and Peter Cookson. The show, mainly the work of Cole Porter, is at the Shubert.

"PLAIN AND FANCY"

The very plain figure in the middle of this valentine is Stefan Schnabel, and the others, beginning with the songbird in the upper left-hand corner and continuing clockwise, are Barbara Cook, Gloria Marlowe, David Daniels, Richard Derr, Nancy Andrews, Shirl Conway, and Douglas Fletcher Rodgers. They all appear in the musical about the Amish people at the Mark Hellinger.
